HISTORY AND METHOD OF GOVERNMENT LAND SURVEYING

COMPILED FROM INFORMATION FURNISHED BY THE UNITED STATES GENERAL LAND OFFICE.

I

On the 7th of May, 1784, a special committee of the Continental Congress, of which Thomas Jefferson was chairman, reported "An ordinance for ascertaining the mode of locating and disposing of lands in the western territory, and for other purposes therein mentioned." It provided for the division of public lands into "hundreds," of ten geographical miles square, each "hundred" to be sub-divided into lots one mile square, to be numbered from 1 to 100, commencing in the north-western corner, and continuing from west to east and from east to west consecutively.

This ordinance as amended and finally passed on the 20th of May, 1785, differing only in unimportant details from that in force to-day, was the first attempt by any country toward the systematic division of its public lands. This system, originated by a pioneer people inhabiting a narrow strip of the Atlantic seaboard, for the proper division and distribution of its western wilderness, has developed with the growth of the United States, until it now covers an area more than four times that of the original thirteen colonies. The "western territory," for the division of which this system was provided, is now in the east, and the center of population of the United States lies two hundred miles to the west of it.

With slight changes this system is now in force in the Dominion of Canada.

The ordinance provided for townships six miles square, containing thirty-six sections, one mile square, numbered from No. 1 in the southeast corner of the township, and running from south to north in each tier to No. 36 in the northwest corner. The first public surveys made under this ordinance were under the direction of the Geographer of the United States, the region covered being the eastern portion of the present State of Ohio, usually called "The Seven Ranges." The governing meridian was the boundary line between Pennsylvania and Ohio, known as "Ellicott's Line," and the townships were numbered north from the Ohio River and the ranges from east to west.

Eleven years after the first ordinance, by the act approved May 18, 1796, Congress provided for the appointment of a Surveyor General; directed that the lands northwest of the Ohio River, and above the mouth of the Kentucky River, "in which the titles of the Indian tribes have been extinguished," be surveyed; and changed the system of numbering sections to that still in use; viz., "the sections shall be numbered, respectively, beginning with the number one in the northeast section and proceeding west and east alternately, through the township, with progressive numbers till the thirty-sixth be completed." This act also provided for the partial division of townships.

The act of Congress, approved May 10, 1800, required the "townships west of the Muskingum, which * * are directed to be sold in quarter townships, to be sub-divided into half sections of three hundred and twenty acres each, as nearly as may be, * * And the interior lines of townships intersected by the Muskingum, and of all the townships lying east of that river, which have not been heretofore actually sub-divided into sections, shall also be run and marked. * * And in all cases where the exterior lines of the townships thus to be sub-divided into sections or half sections shall exceed, or shall not extend, six miles, the excess or deficiency shall be specially noted, and added to or deducted from the western and northern ranges of sections or half sections in such townships, according as the error may be in running the lines from east to west or from south to north."

The act of Congress, approved Feb. 11, 1805, provided for the subdivision of the public lands into quarter sections.

By the act of Congress, approved April 25, 1812, the General Land Office was established in the Department of the Treasury, the chief officer of which was to be called the Commissioner of the General Land Office.

April 24, 1820, Congress provided for the sale of public lands in half quarter sections. The act required that "in every case of the division of a quarter section the line for the division thereof shall run north and south * * and fractional sections, containing 160 acres and upward, shall, in like manner, as nearly as practicable, be subdivided into half quarter sections, under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury; but fractional sections containing less than 160 acres shall not be divided."

The act of Congress, approved May 24, 1824, provides "That whenever, in the opinion of the President of the United States, a departure from the ordinary mode of surveying land on any river, lake, bayou, or water course would promote the public interest, he may direct the surveyor-general in whose district such land is situated, and where the change is intended to be made, under such rules and regulations as the President may prescribe, to cause the lands thus situated to be surveyed in tracts of two acres in width, fronting on any river, bayou, lake or water course, and running back to the depth of forty acres."

The act of Congress, approved April 5, 1832, directed the subdivision of public lands into quarter quarters; that in every case of the division of a half-quarter section the dividing line should run east and west; and that fractional sections should be subdivided under the rules and regulations prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury.

The act of Congress, approved July 4, 1836, provided for the reorganization of the General Land Office, and five years later, by the act of March 3, 1849, it was transferred to the Department of the Interior, which was established by the same act.

This method of describing and dividing public lands is called as all surveys or measurements depend upon two lines, termed the Principal Meridian and Base Line, which are at right angles to each other. Each Principal Meridian with its Base Line dominates a certain amount of territory, large or small, as the case may be, and every plot of land within this territory is not only surveyed from these two lines, but is also described with reference to them.

The method of dividing a certain section of country into the required townships, sections and quarter sections, may be briefly described as follows:

Initial Points.—An Initial Point is first selected with regard to its prominence and easy identification, and is carefully established astronomically.

Principal Meridians.—Through this point, and conforming to the true meridian, the Principal Meridian is extended either north or south, or in both directions, as the conditions may require, by the use of transit or solar instruments.

Base Lines.—The Base Line is determined by similar methods and passes through the same point, running due east and west on a parallel of latitude, and is controlled by the previously determined Principal Meridian.

Correction Lines.—For the correction of surveys and the reconciliation of variations caused by differences of latitude, Correction Lines are established by careful measurements, upon which immediate surveys are based. These lines are usually located at the following intervals. East and west of the Principal Meridian, Guide Meridians are placed every forty-eight miles. North of the Base Line, Standard Parallels are run every twenty-four miles, and south of the Base Line every thirty miles. Where these lines have been first placed at greater distances, Auxiliary Guide Meridians are afterwards established.

On page III will be found a map of the United States showing all Principal Meridians, Base Lines, Guide Meridians and Standard Parallels; the coloring indicating the territory controlled by each Principal Meridian and Base Line.

Diagram 2, page IV, which well illustrates division into townships, is a detail of a portion of Indian Territory controlled by the "Indian Meridian." Together with a portion of the Principal Meridian and Base Line, the First Guide Meridian West, and the First and Second Guide Meridians East are shown, as are also the First Standard Parallels North and South. The lines running north and south, called "Range Lines," divide the land into strips six miles wide and parallel to the Principal Meridian. The divisions are termed "Ranges," and are numbered east and west from the Meridian. Parallel with the Base Line above and below, and at intervals of six miles, are lines running east and west termed "Township Lines." They divide the land into strips which are numbered north and south from the Base Line.

These Township and Range Lines crossing each other at regular intervals form areas called "Townships," which are, as nearly as may be, six miles square. They are designated by their positions relative to the Principal Meridian and Base Line. Thus: the township marked with a star on Diagram 2, page IV, is Township 3 North, Range 6 East of the Indian Meridian, and is easily found by counting three tiers north of the Base Line and six ranges east of the Indian Meridian.

TOWNSHIPS.

Townships are the largest subdivisions of public lands and are called "Government Townships," or "Congressional Townships," to distinguish them from civil or organized townships.

The preliminary operation of "townshipping" having been completed, by which the township corners are established, the section and quarter section corners are determined and properly marked. Each township contains as nearly as possible 23,040 acres, divided into thirty-six sections, one mile or 320 rods square, containing 640 acres each. They are numbered, beginning with section No. 1 in the northeast corner, and running first west and then east until No. 36 is reached in the southeast corner.

Diagram 1, page IV, shows a township as surveyed and platted by the United States Surveyors.

SECTIONS.

A perfect section is one mile, or 320 rods square and contains 640 acres. It is divided into half and quarter sections by Government Surveyors and may be divided into any number of smaller areas by local surveyors. A half section contains 320 acres; a quarter section 160 acres; a half of a quarter, 80 acres; a quarter of a quarter, 40 acres; and so on. Diagram 3, page IV, shows a section subdivided into lots designated by the prescribed notation. Thus the smallest lot on the southeast side, containing two and one-half acres, is the Southwest Quarter of the Southeast Quarter of the Southwest Quarter of the Southeast Quarter of Section No. 36, Township 3 North, Range 5 West of the fifth Principal Meridian.

As government surveyors are not required to run lines within a section, division lines are established by setting quarter posts on the section lines as indicated on Diagram 3. These posts are set as nearly equidistant between Section Corners as possible, except in the case of Fractional Sections, as explained below.

Division of Quarter Sections.—Section Corners and Quarter Posts, having once been established, the Government recognizes no variation due to possible mistakes, and sells or grants each regular subdivision as containing the correct number of acres "more or less." These corners cannot be changed even if it is certain that mistakes have been made. Each "Land Office" State, however, has laws providing that local surveyors shall divide parcels of land smaller than quarter sections by assuming the Government Corners to be correct; that is, a Quarter Section would be divided into "Halves," or "Eighties," by setting posts exactly equidistant between Government Corners. Thus each lot would receive its proportionate share of the error, if there was one, being either under or over eighty acres. This rule is followed in running out "Eighties," "Forties," "Twenties," etc.

FRACTIONAL PIECES OF LAND.

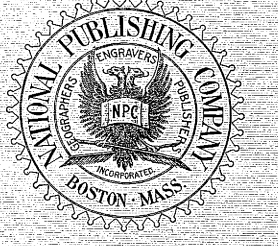

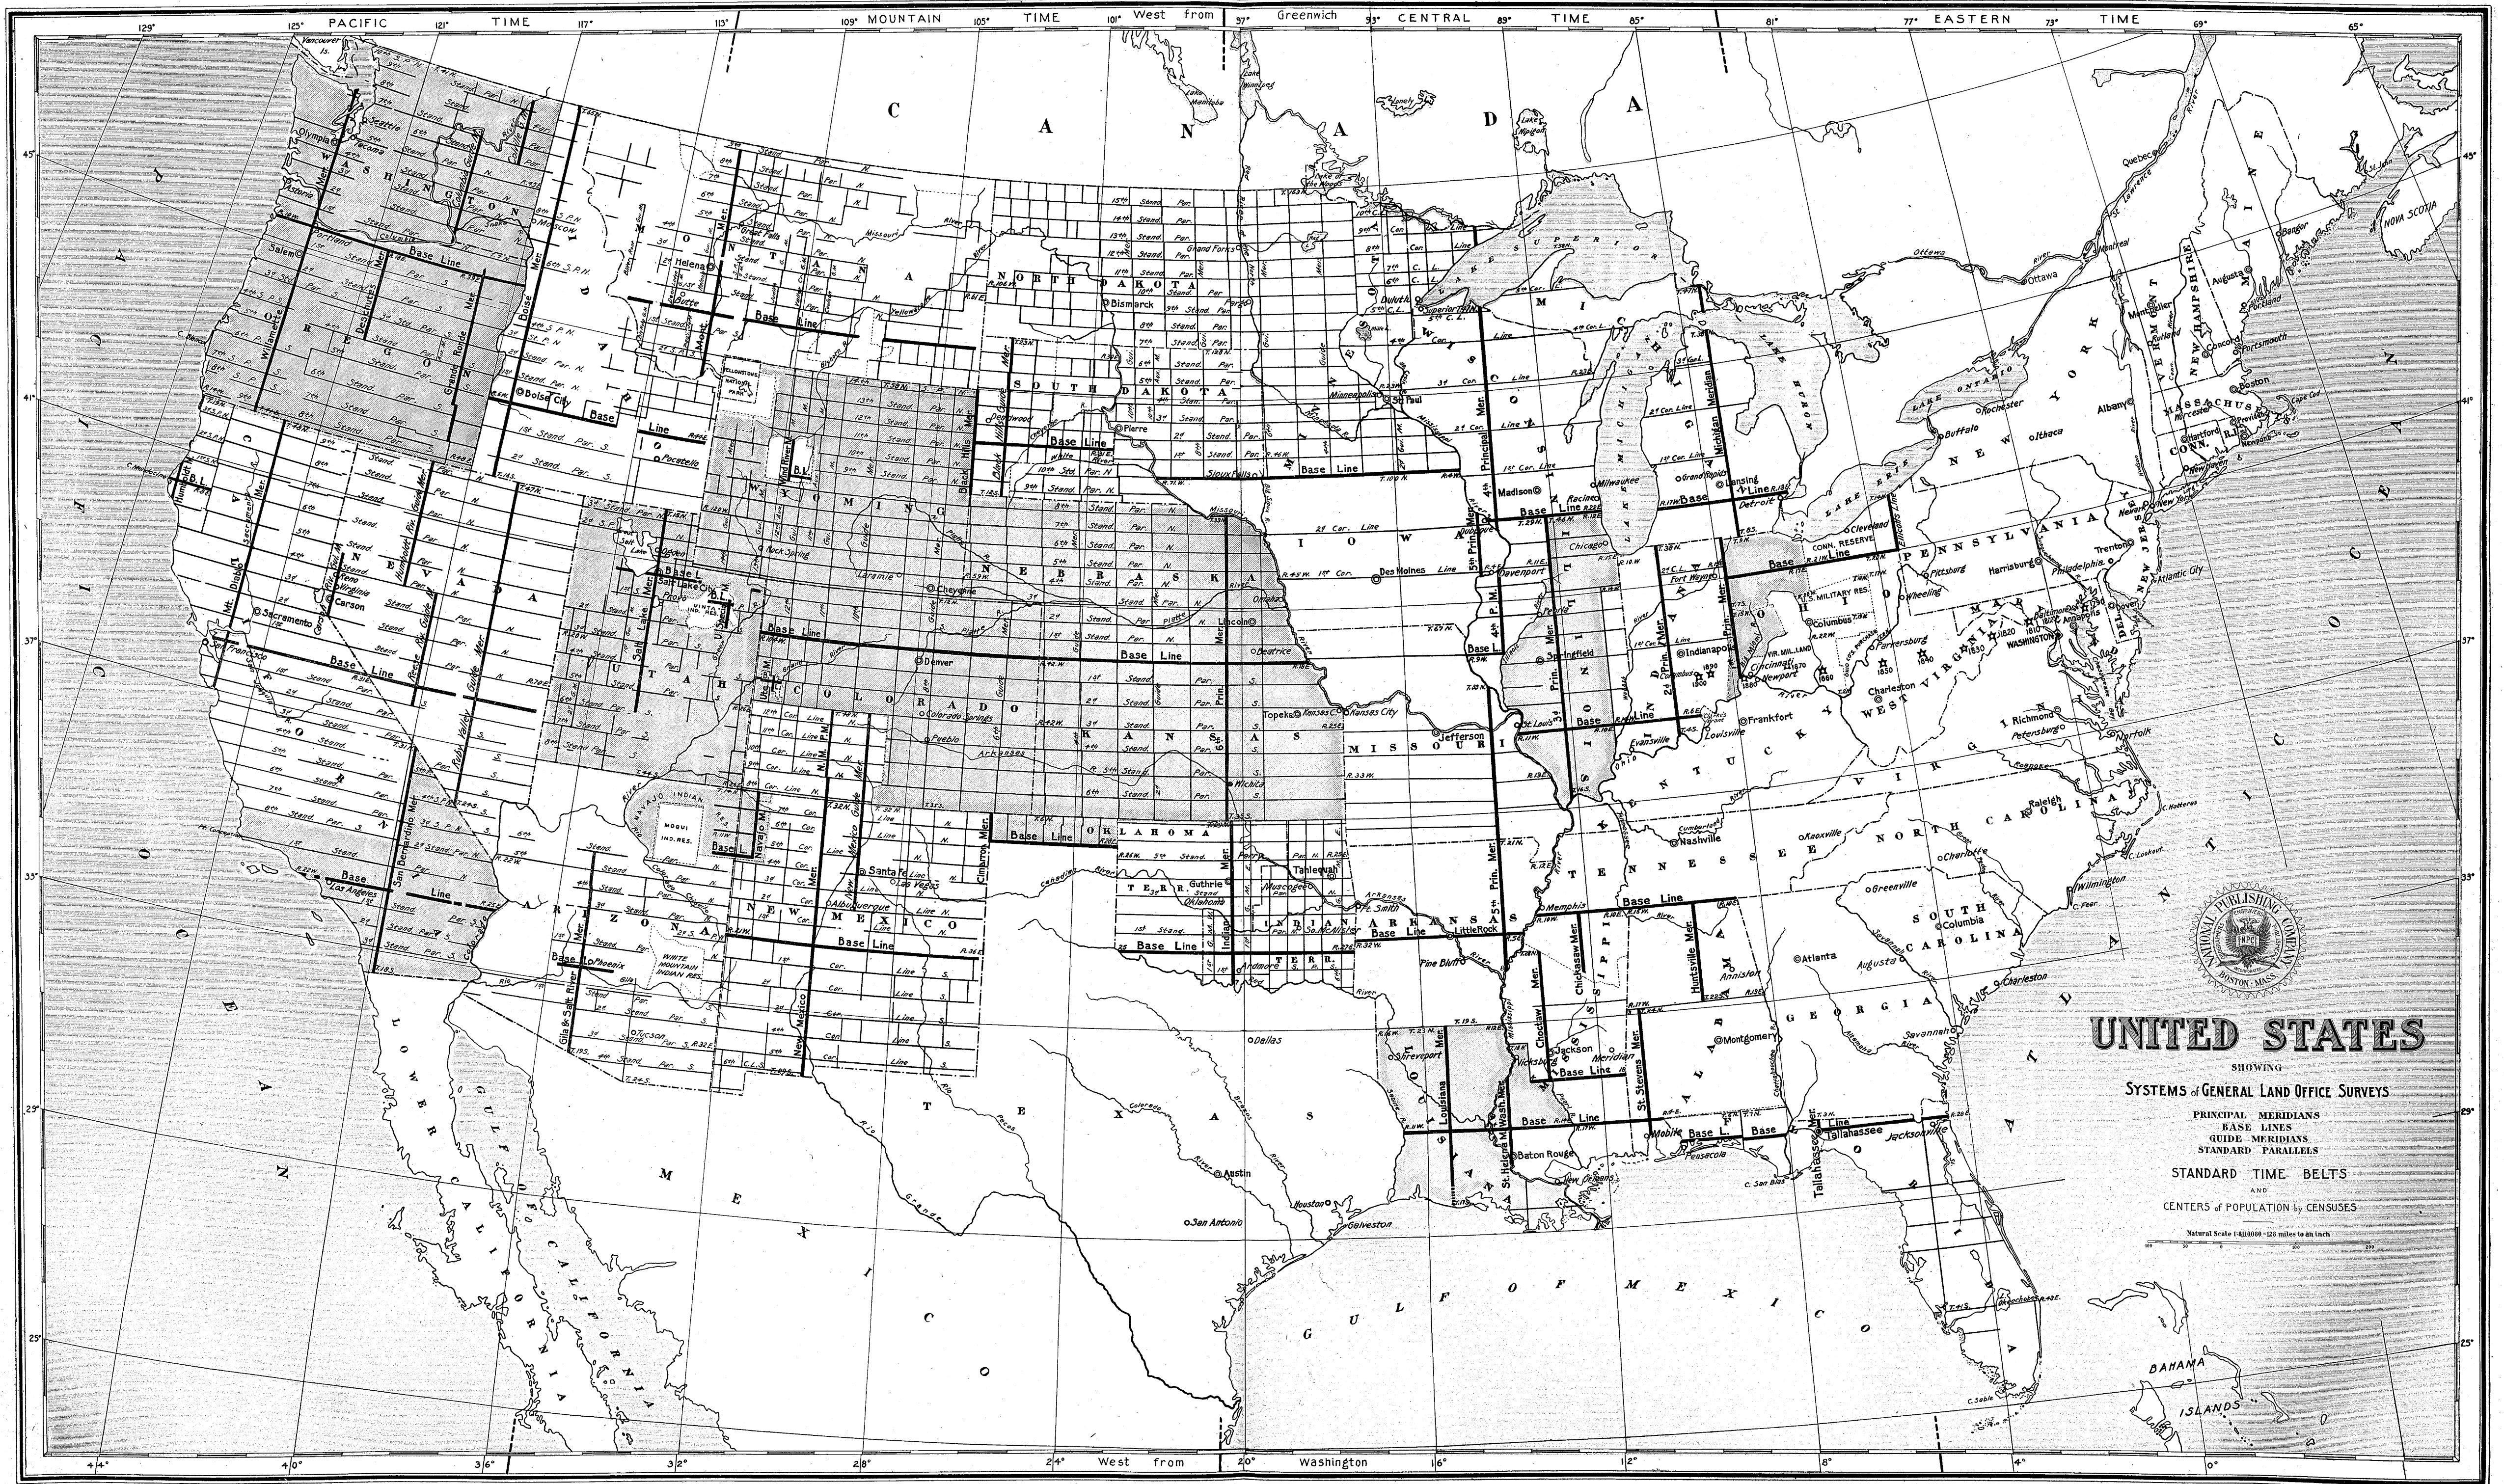

A perfect Congressional Township would contain exactly thirty-six square miles, or 23,040 acres. This, however, may be made impossible by 1st, the convergence of meridians or curvature of the earth; 2nd, State boundaries not falling on township lines; 3rd, the presence of large lakes or streams; 4th, inaccurate surveys. As the last three causes of "Fractional" townships are self-explanatory, it will be necessary to take up here only the first cause, viz., the convergence of meridians.

Existing law requires that "The public lands shall be divided by north and south lines running according to the true meridian and by others crossing them at right angles, so as to form townships six miles square." This is manifestly impossible on account of the shape of the earth. The Meridians of Longitude start at definite intervals at the Equator and converge as they run north and south until they meet at the Poles. Thus it will be seen that as Range Lines must conform to the true meridian, a township north of the Equator will be narrower at the northern than at the southern side. For this reason every township varies more or less from the true size of 23,040 acres, the general shape being trapezoidal.

In dividing a township into sections, any error, deficiency or surplus, is carried to the west and north. All the sections are made perfect, containing 640 acres each, except those along the west and north sides of the township, which are given the balance of land left over from forming the other twenty-five sections. As is shown on Diagram 1, page IV, Sections 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 18, 19, 30, and 31, are the "Fractional" Sections, and in this particular instance, those on the westerly side fall short of the regular size, while of those on the northerly side, part are larger and part smaller than the required area. Each fractional section is divided so as to carry the deficiency or surplus to the side next to the exterior line of the township, these pieces being called "Fractional Eighties" or "Fractional Forties," as the case may be.

Section 6 of Diagram 1 illustrates this point; the Southeast Quarter, the Southern Half of the Northeast Quarter, the Southeast Quarter of the Northwest Quarter, and the Eastern Half of the Southwest Quarter are of full size, while all other divisions are fractional. Thus the area marked with a star is the "Fractional Southwest Quarter of the Southwest Quarter of Section 6." Each Fractional area is always designated as "Fractional."

The above comprises the main features of the system of land surveying used by the Government throughout the country north of the Ohio and west of the Mississippi Rivers, except Texas, and throughout the states of Florida, Alabama and Mississippi.
